THUGS' VICTIM BEATEN, ROBBED, THROWN IN RIVER

Engineer Rescued, and Ambulance Racing to Hospital With Him Hits a Woman.

PATIENTS NEAR DEATH.

Ward Has a Chance of Recovery—Miss Pertiet Removed to Bellevue.

Matthew Ward, an engineer on the Albany steamboat line, refused to give him up at Fourteenth street and North River to-day, and after a hard fight water. Ward had been over to Hoboken to visit friends and returned to New York by the Fourteenth street ferry early this morning. Two men followed him as he started along the river front, making for Mills Hotel No. 1, where he is stopping.

"How much money have you?" asked one of the men as he caught the engineer by the arm.
"What's it to you?" replied Ward.

For answer the man struck the engineer in the face. Ward sent the man eprawling with a blow in the pit of the stomach. The two, however, soon overpowered Ward, and after rifling his on the stringpiece and dropped him overboard.

Ward is a good swimmer, but when the tide caught him and began carrying him out into the stream he was much of a fight. He yelled for help, and as his body shot by a coal barge Peter Connelly, a deck hand, threw him a rope. Ward was dragged on deck, and there collapsed.

When Dr. O'Connor came in an ambulance from St. Vincent's hospital he nw that Ward was near to death, and told his driver, Frank Gillen: "Unless you break records in getting to the hospital this man will die." Gillen gave his horse the lash and galloped west through Fourteenth street. At Eighth avenue a young woman was waiting for a north bound car. As the ambulance came dashing up the woman became confused and stepped in the way of the horse. She was knocked down and the wheels of the vehicle passed over her body.

Gillen stopped, and the unconscious woman was lifted in the ambulance beaide the unconscious Ward.

At the hospital the woman said she was Alice Pertiet, a domestic employed at No. 310 West Eighty-sixth street. She had a badly cut head and injuries about the back. She was removed to Ward's condition is serious, but it to said he has a chance to recover.

BAVARIAN REGENT AT 87 CELEBRATES

Luitpold Dresses as Mountaineer Peasant and Hunts All the Year.

MUNICH, March 12 .- Prince Luitpold. Regent of Bavaria, to-day celebrated his eighty-seventh birthday amid a brilliant gathering of the Bayarian nobility. In the morning the Prince received telegraphic congratulations from Emperor William and the heads of the reigning houses of the Empire as well as felicitations from abroad. Later there was an immense military serenade before the Palace, in which the entire garrison of Munich took part. The Prince replied by appearing at one of the palace windows and bowing.

The effects of his many years are almost unnoticeable in the person of the venerable Regent, who looks to be much younger than he really is. He is in splendid physical condition, and nearly every day defies wind and weather and undergoes the hardships of the chase. It is the custom to wear almost always the old-fashioned greenish-gray shooting costume peculiar to Bavaria.

He goes about in thick hobnailed shoes drawn over his bare feet, the woolen stockings of his costume merely covering the calves of his legs. His knees are bare, for the trousers of this costume are short knickerbockers. A flannel shirt, a rough homespun jacket and a soft felt Alpine hat adorned with the beard of a mountain goat complete his outfit. The Regent is very fond of hunting and passes many a night in his sparsely furnished and primitive shooting lodges so as to be ready for the early morning excursions after game. He hunts all through the year, stopping only when the snow in the mountains is too deep to permit travel. He is regarded as an ideal woodsman among the hardy mountaineers and foresters of the Bavarian highlands, with whom he maintains the most friendly intercourse. the beard of a mountain goat complete he maintains the most friendly intercourse.

The Bavarian people seem to have forgotten the existence of King Otto, the mad ruler of their country, who has been interned in a small palace in a suburb of Munich since 1886. The Bavarian Parliament would have made Prince Luitpold King in succession to Otto had he not refused to accept the post. Consequently he has ruled as Regent.

Still Cleaning Out the Smoky Goods

HE further we go into the work of inspecting the stock injured in Monday night's fire the more of it we find. All the actual flames were across the street, but the smoke was thickest here. And, besides the damage done by smoke, you cannot have a hundred or more frenzied fire-fighters rushing about with hose and extinguishers in a store filled with fine goods without finding a great deal of scratched, tumbled-about and mussedup merchandise next day—in fact we are still finding it.

> Goods of this sort make fine bargain material, because we must get rid of them promptly. We are making prices on them that are creating new records for such events.

Women's Shoes at Wonderful Bargain Prices

LATE Easter and an early money panic are disturbing factors in the shoe manufacturing business. And as a consequence we now have about $25,000 worth of good shoes, for which we paid about half price. They are in the season's best and most attractive styles and of the most wanted and serviceable leathers. Likewise we offer these to you at a saving in price. Besides these bargain shoes to choose among, our new Foot Moulds, now coming in, make the selection of your spring and summer shoes easy and interesting here.

Women's $2.50 High-Cut Shoes, $1.39 Button or lace styles; made of enamel patent leather, with narrow toes and Cuban heels; materials used are as good as you'll find in some $3 grades; all sizes.

Women's $3.50 Shoes, $1.95

Eight different models in kidskin, calfskin or patent leather; button or lace style; most of them are copies of higherpriced shoes; all sizes and widths.

Women's $3 to $5 Low Shoes, $1.95 Every good style is included; plenty of tan pumps and colonials in turned or welted soles; fine kidskin and patent leather Oxford ties and pumps in all sizes; also several very pretty styles of Gibson ties.

Misses' High-Cut Shoes, 98c Only two months ago we sold similar shoes at $2; judge from that how great the values are offered in these at 98c. Made of soft calfskin in high-cut, lace style with low heels; all sizes.

Spring Styles in Foot Mould Shoes Every idea that is new and desirable in shoes will be found in our new Foot Mould designs. In both the high-cut and low-cut models there is the greatest amount of originality and taste; both black and tan leathers are shoes on the market, but cost only.... $3 and $3.50 in popular favor.
